

Hair for Hope Shaves its Way Back to Saint Joseph's Institution

The rain poured in the morning of 30 July 2010, and so did the number of shavees from Saint Joseph's Institution (SJI). With 193 shavees from all the levels, SJI recorded the highest number of shavees for a school satellite event in this year's Hair for Hope.

SJI has supported Hair for Hope in the last three years. The mission of SJI is to empower its students to become men of integrity and men for others. By shaving their heads, these boys show that they stand in solidarity with the children who are suffering from cancer.

One of the student organisers, Sean Lee, shares, "We are happy to bring back this meaningful event into SJI. Hair for Hope is one of the most anticipated events we have in school. We plan to continue our support for the cause."

Children's Cancer Foundation is sincerely grateful for the unwavering support from Saint Joseph's Institution. We are heartened to see that through the years the SJI boys continue to contribute to the Foundation's cause.
