

Hair for Hope Returns to Saint Patrick School

The boys from St. Patrick's School came out in numbers as 115 heads were shaved on 5 August 2010 for their Hair for Hope satellite event. Returning for the second time, St. Patrick's involvement did not disappoint as students greeted the Hair for Hope team with much enthusiasm. "Everyone in the school was looking forward to Hair for Hope," shares Mr Ng Chong Jin, one of the teachers who helped organise the satellite event.

It was a sight to behold as boys from different levels queued up for their turn to be shaved. Among the shavees is one of our survivors, Jatin, who shared, "I am happy to see the whole school really exerting effort to support Hair for Hope." The Hair for Hope satellite event is part of the school's National Day celebration efforts as they promote civic awareness among the youth.

Children's Cancer Foundation is proud to have St Patrick's School as one of its staunch supporters in the community. We hope to contribute in molding the youth in becoming more socially aware by involving them in our efforts to raise the awareness on childhood cancer in the community.
